

CV Mauricio Avendano

'Mauricio Avendano is a quantitative social scientist interested in the impact of social changes and public policies on health and inequalities. He holds an appointment as Associate Professor at the University of Lausanne, and as co-director of the Health Policy Unit at the Department of Epidemiology and Health Systems at Unisanté. He is adjunct Associate Professor at Harvard University, and visiting professor of global health and public policy at King's College London'