

Nicole Probst-Hensch

Prof. Dr. Nicole Probst-Hensch holds PhDs in Pharmacy (University of Basel) and in Epidemiology (ULCA). She is a member of the Swiss TPH directory board and is heading the institute's largest research department Epidemiology and Public Health. N. Probst-Hensch is the principle investigator of numerous national and international citizen cohorts and biobanks, including SAPALDIA, the only Swiss-wide citizen biobank, and COVCO-Basel. N. Probst-Hensch is a renowned exposome epidemiologist applying personalized health methods towards improving mechanistic understanding of environmental and behavioural health risks.